

SHAW HEADS SERIES OF TRAINING SCHOOLS

Former Dean of School of Engineering Chosen by New York Firm.

WORK IS EXTENSIVE

Electric Power, Gas and Oil Included in Subjects for Instruction.

Dr. Howard B. Shaw, former dean of the University of Missouri School of Engineering, has been appointed supervisory head of the Schools of Practice maintained by Henry L. Doherty & Company of New York. The schools of the company at Denver, Toledo, Barlesville, Okla., and Titusville, Pa., are maintained for the specialized education of graduate engineers.

The men attending the Denver school study the artificial gas and electric business. At Toledo they learn electricity, particularly as regards power, and the operation of traction systems. The Barlesville curriculum embraces a field study of natural gas and oil, and at Titusville oil refining is learned.

Member of Utilities Commission.

Doctor Shaw left the University of Missouri to become the engineering member of the Missouri Public Utilities Commission. Several students in the Doherty schools attended his classes at the University and have enthusiastically hailed his appointment as head of the system. The Doherty News, the official organ of the company, has the following to say regarding their new appointee after announcing his acceptance of the new position:

"As many members of the Doherty Organization would probably like to know something about the characteristics and peculiarities of Doctor Shaw, The Doherty News has investigated with the result that few anecdotes were obtained.

"It is not a usual thing for a member of a university faculty to indulge in the sportive methods peculiar to sophomores and freshmen, yet it is recalled that Doctor Shaw entered this category while at the University of Missouri, his crime being the cutting of the University fire hose. It is not recorded that he was obliged to explain his motives to the president, however.

Anecdotes on Doctor Told.

"It was during a battle between the sophs and the freshmen one evening, when, as Doctor Shaw passed along one side of the campus he encountered a crowd of sophomores. Because he was moving in the shadows they promptly classified him as one of the common enemy—that is, freshmen—and proceeded to turn the hose on him. The doctor fled—who wouldn't—but vengefully skirted the rear of the attacking party, whipped out his pocket-knife and stopped that phase of the bombardment right away. Moreover, his dignity was not drenched.

"Still, it seems as if the president might have had grounds for a grudge, because on Dr. Shaw's first formal call on his chief he abstracted 'prexy's' hat. It is not known how the president discovered the identity of the—ah—abstracter—but he did send a written request to Dr. Shaw for the return of his headpiece.

Mistaken for a Freshman.

"To many of those meeting him for the first time Dr. Shaw's modesty appears to be one of his great virtues, but his appearance, as in many cases, is a trifle deceptive if one instance that occurred during his first few days at Missouri can be taken as evidence. He was walking on the campus and was accosted by a freshman who inquired if he was a newcomer. Dr. Shaw admitted that, and further stated that he was in the electrical engineering department.

"How do you like your new professor?" asked the freshman.

"Very well indeed," replied Dr. Shaw heartily.

Born at Winslow, Maine.

"Howard Burton Shaw was born in Winslow, Me., in 1869. He was educated in the private schools at Tabor, N. C., and was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1889 with the degree of A. B. He received a B. C. E. from there in 1891, and an A. M. from Harvard in 1894.

"From 1889 to 1913 he served as instructor, assistant professor and professor in mathematics, surveying and drawing at the University of North Carolina, Harvard University and the University of Missouri. At the latter university he was dean of the school of engineering and director of the engineering experiment station at the time of his appointment to the Missouri Public Service Commission in April, 1913.

Has Written Several Books.

The new head of the Doherty schools has written several engineering books and has had much practical engineering experience. He was with the Phoenix Iron Company in 1892; in street railway work in Jersey City, N. J., Newark, N. J., and Pittsburgh in 1896, and did miscellaneous engineering work from 1899 to 1913, including the position of consulting engineer for Columbus, Mo., the water and light plant, and engineering projects of the University of Missouri. He also suggested, developed and inspired the engineering experiment station (1909-1913), and was editor of its series of bulletins.

"Dr. Shaw is a member of the following societies: American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Engineers' Club, St. Louis; Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, Scientific Association, University of Missouri; Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, Eta Kappa Nu and Phi Beta Kappa, University of Missouri.

CITY AND CAMPUS

SPORT

Coach Schulte is driving the Tigers hard this week in preparation for the game with Nebraska Saturday at Lincoln. Owing to the large number of injured men it will be necessary for the Tigers to use a team composed almost entirely of second and third-string men.

Captain Hamilton, Bass, Schroeder and Viner will be unable to play against the Cornhuskers. Morris is also out of the game as the result of injuries received in the Oklahoma game. Stevens or Cross will replace him at quarterback. McLane and Urie are being worked every evening and will probably get in the game, as they have almost recovered from their early season injuries.

Scrimmage practice is being held every night on Rollins Field to get the inexperienced linemen in shape to battle Nebraska's powerful forwards. Every man on the squad is being used this week in an effort to discover linemen who can charge fast and break up plays. Coach Miller's strong freshman team is giving the Varsity a real taste of battle.

Time to Show Spirit, Says Coach Schulte.

"There is something decidedly wrong with the spirit here at the University of Missouri," said Coach H. F. Schulte at the track mass meeting Monday night. According to the coach, the track situation this year is deplorable. The greatest possible number of M men who will be here for track this spring is only three.

Everyone seems to take things as a matter of course, said Schulte, and because of the fact that there has been a winning track team in the past is willing to sit back and depend upon the other fellow this year, as in former years.

Short Course Club to Meet Friday.

The first weekly meeting of the Short Course Agricultural Club will be in Room 200, Agricultural Building, Friday night. Prof. S. D. Gromer will speak.
